Liberal Studies,
Citizenship and Social Development and Life and Society

Objective

The aims of Liberal Studies are to help students:

1. enhance students' understanding of themselves, their society, their nation, the human world and the physical environment;
2. develop multiple perspectives on perennial and cross-disciplinary, contemporary issues in different contexts;
3. become independent thinkers so that they can construct knowledge appropriate to changing personal and social circumstances;
4. develop a range of skills for life-long learning, including critical thinking skills, creativity, problem-solving skills, communication skills and information technology skills;
5. appreciate and respect diversity in cultures and views in a pluralistic society and handle conflicting values;
6. develop positive values and attitude towards life, so that they can become informed and responsible citizens of society, the country and the world.

The aims of Citizenship and Social Development are to help students:

1. enhance understanding of society, the country, the human world, the physical environment and related knowledge;
2. develop multiple perspectives on contemporary mature topics in different contexts (e.g. cultural, social, economic, political and technological contexts);
3. become independent thinkers; be able to adapt to the ever-changing personal, social, national and global circumstances and construct knowledge; understand the complexities of the topics, and the challenges and processes involved in decision-making for making law-abiding, rational and affective analysis, and learning how to handle conflicting values;
4. inherit Chinese culture and heritage in a pluralistic society, deepen understanding and sense of identity of individuals with Chinese nationality and Chinese citizenship, and at the same time appreciate, respect and embrace diversity in cultures and views;
5. develop skills relevant to life-long learning and strengthen their ability to integrate and apply knowledge and skills, including critical thinking skills, creativity, problem solving skills, communication skills, collaboration skills, data management skills, self-management skills, self-learning skills, and information technology skills;

6. develop positive values and attitudes towards life, so that they can become informed and responsible citizens of society, the country and the world.

The aims of Life and Society are to help students:

1. develop in students a positive self understanding, enhance competence to meet daily and future challenges, and pursue their goals and aspirations.
2. enable students to make decisions for the optimal use of personal and community resources.
3. develop students to become informed and responsible citizens to contribute to the development of a caring and just society.
4. cultivate in students sensitivity, interests and concern for local, national and global issues.
